Dear Fellowship Director:

I reach out today on behalf of the Ruth Jackson Orthopedic Society's Mentoring Committee. This summer, we will launch a new program called the "Ambassador Mentorship Program," which will match new fellowship graduates entering their first year of practice with a senior RJOS mentor to navigate the complexities and nuances of the first year of practice.

We thank you in advance for helping to educate and train new orthopedic surgeons. We are asking for your help in spreading the word about our new program amongst your network of fellowship directors, so that they may encourage their female trainees to take advantage of this opportunity. The only requirements for this exciting relationship are to be a woman, to be entering your first year of clinical practice in 2019, and to be a member of the Ruth Jackson Orthopedic Society. Your female fellows can visit the RJOS website (RJOS.org) to find all the details and fill out an application by June 1, 2019. They can send an email to rjosambassador@gmail.com with any inquiries.

Feel free to contact me at the same email for additional information as you see fit.

Best,
