Case Logs – Access starts on August 1, 2022

All fellows are required to keep a log of their cases during their fellowship year. You must keep a case log for your program to maintain OTA fellowship accreditation status. Accurate case reporting is critical to our ability to evaluate fellowship case volumes and case types across the country. We use this information in conjunction with forthcoming survey questions to better understand the range of fellowship experiences and to inform future fellows about programs.

Please communicate with OTA if you are having any problems entering your cases. Additionally, we urge you to communicate any CPT codes that are missing from the OTA database.

You will need to log in to the Case Log System through the OTA Website (click on the My Account Login button on the top right side), if you have any problems with your log in, contact connell@ota.org or ota@ota.org. Once you have logged into your profile, you will see a menu of options, select case logs. From there, another menu will appear and then you should select case log reporting. All this information is also found on the Current Fellows page of the OTA Website.

Important Reminders:

- Please update the case log regularly. We recommend at least weekly.
- Do not enter patient identifying data such as name or complete medical record number
- ONLY record the cases where you are the primary surgeon or first assistant

If you are a fellow in an ACGME accredited program, you must use the ACGME case log system. Reporting must be completed by the end of the academic year, with case log submissions due to OTA by July 31st, 2022.
