

The Brazilian Society of Orthopedic Trauma, a member of the Orthopaedic Trauma Association (OTA), is dedicated to the continuous improvement of Brazilian trauma doctors. One of the highlights is the Leadership Course, focused on developing qualities relevant to leaders, especially young orthopedists who will soon hold positions requiring this profile. The course, led by Dr. Ted Miclau from UCSF and with all spots filled, will take place on May 15, preceding the XXIX Brazilian Congress of Orthopedic Trauma (CBTO) in Florianópolis, SC. The congress begins the following day (May 16) with an extensive scientific program.

We invite everyone to join us at CBTO 2024, where Brazilian and international experts will share valuable knowledge on surgical techniques and treatment. It will undoubtedly be an enriching exchange. Participate!
